

Fernhill Jacaranda Tree

National Tree Day colouring in competition

The gardens at Fernhill were once very famous. Our jacaranda tree is over 100 years old and 12 metres high, and is still at the heart of our community.

Did you know a visiting sea captain from South America gave Australia's first jacaranda tree to Brisbane's Botanic Gardens in 1864?

For National Tree Day, can you colour in or decorate this picture? What could you draw under the jacaranda? The best artwork will win a prize and hang in our Jacaranda Café when our new building opens in October.
